I never see anybody come out here from Bawston that didn t have it. They all git it took off of em in a hurry, though, I notice. What does sech a high-an - mighty want of a shingle-mill an loggin -camp, I d like to know! Here, Sidonie, let s hull these strawberries. She sat down and took a pan of berries on her lap. She had the generous pink flesh and the comfortable look generally that come to a woman at fifty if she has not fretted her health away over small cares. There was another Mrs. Brown at the logging-camp, and, as initials were not in high favor, they were known as Mrs. Soomas Brown and Mrs. Goshen Brown, from the towns in which they had formerly dwelt. I liked him, said Sidonie, sitting down and taking a strawberry in her pale, delicate fingers. I didn t think...
